FROM COLLEGE STUDENT TO WORKING PROFESSIONAL

By Michelle Washington

If you are a graduating senior, then the party days of college are slowly dwindling down and graduation is upon you. All night “cram” sessions, midterms, finals, and earning your long awaited degree was only half the battle. It is now time to prepare for your new life in the professional world. As hard as it may be, put away your favorite college jersey and toss your sweat suit in the bottom drawer. The transition from college student to working professional is a dramatic change and you will need to “look the part” to get the job.

Your new professional look must change with the seasons. With fall upon us, there is no need to be a fashion mishap by looking “overly sexy” or “sloppy”. Your new place of employment is not the setting to use as your “personal catwalk”. However, you can still look professional without forsaking fashion. Here are a few ways to look stylish while staying work appropriate.

QUICK CONNECT

To view all of Michelle's Do's and Don'ts, log on to www.HBCUCONNECT.com

Do you have questions? “Ask Michelle” www.styleology.net

Women:

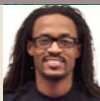

- DO NOT wear miniskirts to your interview or in your work environment. Remember, you are not back on “campus” anymore. Your best bet will be to avoid looking “too girly” and choose a look to emphasize your inner strength.
- DO purchase a stylish “A-line” skirt, circle skirt, soft pleated skirt or straight skirt. Pair this with a nice tailored jacket (light suiting fabric) for a look that is chic.
- DO NOT wear open toe shoes to your interview. If you are currently in an office environment, the company dress code will decide the rule on open toe shoes and hosiery.
- DO wear a closed toe pair of shoes to your interview. Choose a pair of shoes that will compliment your interview ensemble in both style and color. Also take time to polish and clean your shoes.

Men:

- DO NOT wear short sleeve dress shirts; this look goes beyond “tacky”.
- DO wear long sleeve dress shirts; change the fabric to compliment the season
- DO NOT wear old scuffed unpolished shoes to your interview or in the workplace.
- DO invest in one or two pairs of shoes in the latest styles and neutral colors. Match the appropriate shoes according to the color of your suit; keep your shoes clean and polished.

Follow these tips and you will not miss!

BLINGING AND BALLING, BUSTED AND BROKE:

Getting your paper straight after college

By Dr. Boyce Watkins

A mind is a terrible thing to waste, and you are wasting your mind if you have not used it to build, invest and teach in your community:

Rule #1: The easiest way to stay poor is to never own anything. Renting an apartment will help your landlord get a house, not you. Buying cars helps the auto dealer get a new limo, not you. The candy apple paint on their new Mercedes is being peeled right off your your skin. Get on the other side of that deal! Buy a house as quick as you can, buy stocks, buy bonds, own ASSETS. Don't believe the hype about having a high paycheck; It means nothing if you don't own anything.

Rule #2: The quickest path to getting pimped is to always work for someone else. Don't just try to find a job, put yourself in position to CREATE a job. Start your own business as soon as you can. Remember: when you are working for someone else, they are usually earning 10 dollars for every dollar they pay you. Now THAT'S pimpin. Get with the GRAND hustle, not the BLAND hustle by using the PLANNED hustle to start your own business.

QUICK CONNECT

Dr. Boyce Watkins is a Finance Professor at Syracuse University. You can go to www.boycewatkins.com or www.financiallovemaking.com for more information.

Rule #3: Save at least 10% of your money every time you get paid, NO EXCUSES. You should pay yourself first by having the money come right out of your check. A person who saves $200 per week starting at the age of 22 and invests that money in the stock market for a 10% return every year will have roughly $43,000 by the time they are 32, $434,000 by the time they are 52, and $1.6 million when they are 65. That's enough money to help Flava Flav get a new girlfriend.

JUST TELL HER YOU HATE BEING BLACK...

Submitted By Kevin Ahmaad Jenkins, North Carolina Central University

What am I going to tell her?

My little girl that is coming into this world—
what am I going to tell her?

I guess I would tell her to respect herself as a queen and I would tell her if she is mocha brown or silky coconut or even the deepest chocolate you are beautiful. I would tell her don't accept "you are beautiful for a dark-skinned girl" or oh she is fine "Cause she got good hair."

I would tell her don't let anyone judge your beauty by how dark or light your skin may be?

I have not seen your face baby girl and I probably have another four years before we meet but this dark-skin versus light skin thing has really bothered me. You see Baby Girl, when I was younger a girl told me I was ugly because I was black. Not Martin Luther King black or Malcolm X black but too dark to be beautiful.

I won't let another person slide trying to make my dark skin a curse and you don't have to either. To love yourself means seeing your own beauty. I see your beauty not because of your skin's tone but because of your life's potential. Some think the "house negroes" have it better than the "field negroes" but really we have hurt each other for so long we don't see that Willie Lynch is still writing the books on Black Consciousness.

I couldn't help but only like light skinned girls cause I was thinking about my kids. I didn't want my kids to be black like me, but now ... I want my kids to be just like me. Me is what black was! I am talking about back in the day when growing up without a dad didn't make you dysfunctional it just made you more responsible. Me is what black was! I am talking bout when you weren't living until you're In Living Color. When you didn't call another black man your nigga you called him your brother. Me is what black was! So I will stand up tell our youth—babies and records ain't the only thing we can produce.

So Baby Girl, I begin with you. You already got a leg up on me. You got a father that loves you and will tell if you want to fall in love, stand for it first.

COLLEGE LEADS TO CRIMINAL ARRESTS AND CONVICTION

Submitted By Daniel Moss, Clafin University
By Pamela Jewell, Clark Atlanta University

Making poor decisions while you are in college can leave you without a degree and serving jail time. This author interviews and delves into the lives of college students who've made poor decisions that cost them their freedom and education. Imagine falling short of money and being offered the opportunity to make fast cash gambling, manufacturing drugs, or selling fake IDs to be used for credit card fraud? Could you resist the urge to illegally increase your income from $100 to $1,000 weekly? Imagine spending time in jail because you ignored those parking tickets. Imagine having to make that dreaded call to your parents for bail money? Imagine getting arrested, losing your financial aid, and being expelled from college, simply because you hung around a student who frequently gets high and occasionally slings "bags"? And the sad part about it is that YOU don't even get high. Imagine doing time for a crime you didn't even commit.

This book was written to help college students and future college students become aware of the choices and consequences they may face during their college experience.

College can be a very arduous period in life. Yet, it can be very rewarding. College is deeper than the façade of simply going to class and studying for exams. Today, a lurking culture exists in the midst of college life. It is a culture that is as unique to college as pacifiers are to a baby. There are expectations for survival in the college world just as there are in the business world.

FRAT LIFE??

Submitted By William C. Lewis, Morgan State University

Is it just the Ques or are there other fraternities that are out of control?? I thought that we were founded to enrich the social and intellectual aspects of college life for black men. On the east coast, all we do is try to see who can get the most women or find out the most "detailed information" about our frat! What is the deal.

A "THANK YOU" TO HBCUCONNECT.COM

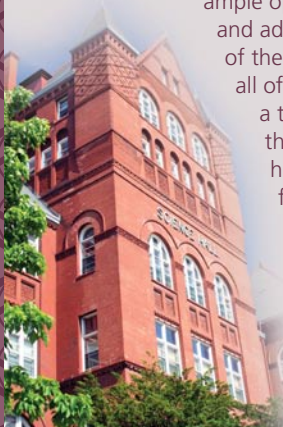

Submitted By Jimmie Lee Gibson Jr., Norfolk State University

As my one year anniversary with hbcuconnect.com approaches, I decided to take a minute or two to examine my experiences with the site. As I look back, I find that I am very much happy with what I see. I've had the opportunity to interact with people from all over the country and find out what things are like in their part of the world. I've been able to share ideas, stories, jokes and my personal philosophies with the people that I've met.

I can recall many days that I spent in the cafe chatroom tag-teaming with the Doc and getting the ever-lively Kuntri and always wonderful miss Elle's perspective on situations. Interactions with Darryl D Smith on his now retired column, "The Blogger". The dialogues that I continue to share with Sherita and Jackie. The kind words and sound advice of the lovely miss Amecia, Monica Brown, and Tressia Amacher. I've even had the pleasure of meeting members from the site as well as several of the excellent hbcuconnect staff. There are many people that I could name, but will not unfortunately in order to save some time.

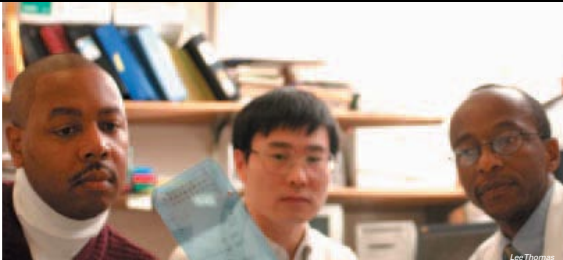

The members of the site provided a family like atmosphere and the hbcuconnect staff supplied the home filled with ample opportunities for enlightenment and advancement (although many of their services go unused). With all of that being said, I must render a thank you to all of the people that contribute to the success of hbcuconnect.com.....and don't forget the .com

You are many things – visionary, inspirational, unique. We are many things – educators and students, advocates for our community, supporters of research that is changing our world for the better, and providers of the kind of healthcare that earned our Hospital a top ranking in U.S. News and World Report. Combined, we believe your expertise and our diverse opportunities can make a winning partnership.

At the University of Kentucky we value each and every person on our vibrant campus. After all, it's their fresh perspectives, diverse work experiences, and varied ideological outlooks that make us great and that's why creating a supportive environment that will nurture diversity of thought, culture, gender and ethnicity is a part of our Strategic Plan to attract the finest people from around the country and the world. One of our most exciting new endeavors is our Business Plan to become a Top 20 research university. This strategy includes increasing student enrollment by 7,000, hiring 625 new faculty members, increasing our world-class research funding to $768 million – all within the next several years!

In addition to being an employer of choice, our university is located in Lexington, which is ranked among the nation's most creative and safest small cities making it an ideal location to work and live. The Best Places to Work

www.bestplacetowork.org

Across the world in America's 265 embassies and consulates, or right here in the United States, U.S. Department of State employees build extraordinary careers while helping turn societies into stronger democracies. Two recent independent surveys named the U.S. Department of State as one of the best places to work in the Federal Government and an ideal employer among diverse undergraduates.

Whether you are serving overseas, domestically, or in one of our innovative student programs, the U.S. Department of State provides unique opportunities to Americans from many backgrounds. HOW TO WRITE A WINNING SCHOLARSHIP ESSAY

By Dante Lee alumnus of Bowie State and CEO of Diversity City Media

THIRD PERSON: Be sure to write your essay in 3rd person. This means not to use words such as “I”, “we” or even “you”. Rather, you want to write your essay as if it’s a newspaper article or a press release. For instance, suppose the essay question is “What do you think about abortions?” Don’t start off saying “I think abortions are...” or “I believe that abortions can...” Instead, just say “Abortions are...” or “Abortions can...”

ORGANIZATION: Be sure to organize your essay. This means that you will need a definite introduction, a body, and a conclusion. Be sure to use paragraphs, and make it clear which paragraphs are which. Also, organize your thought. Don’t have random thoughts within the essay that don’t fit with the flow of the paragraphs.

MANY PEOPLE LOSE ESSAY
CONTESTS
BECAUSE THEY DON’T FOLLOW SIMPLE RULES.

REFERENCES: Use references in your essay to show that you did your research. You can cite a book, a magazine, or even a web site. Whenever you make a claim in your essay that wouldn’t be obvious to most people, you should definitely cite where you obtained such a statement. You can also include a few quotes from notable people, but make sure that it appropriately relates to the topic of your essay.

PAY ATTENTION: Pay attention to the rules. Many people lose essay contests because they don’t follow simple rules. For example, if a scholarship contest requires that you put only your name and phone number at the top of your essay- then do just that. Don't decide to add your address and fax number. If they say to email your essay in, don't submit it via postal mail. This may very well be a test to see if you can follow instructions.

NO TYPOS: Be sure that you spell all words correctly in your essay. Make sure that you use quotation marks, commas, colons, semi-colons, and periods appropriately. Avoid incomplete sentences and run- on sentences.

MAKE THE DEADLINE: Shockingly, many applicants try to submit essays after the deadline. Make sure that you get yours in on time. Don't procrastinate. Start early, and submit early.

THINK BIG...AND SMALL: Don't just apply for the high-end scholarships for $5,000 and up. Keep in mind that these generally are more competitive due to more applicants. Be sure to also apply for the smaller ones, like the $500 and $1,000 scholarships. These opportunities are easier to win because most applicants don't take them very seriously. They also usually have less applicants.

HOT CAREERS! By Jehan Bunch

Ok, it is the beginning of a new semester or quarter for you in school. You are so fueled by seeing old friends and new faces that you might not be thinking about what lies ahead! But, you should be thinking about the many opportunities that are out there for you in regards to a career. Since, we at HBCUCONNECT.com are all about opportunities, here are some of our picks for a hot, exciting career!

EMPLOYMENT COUNSELOR OR SPECIALIST

WHY THIS CAREER IS HOT? Companies increasingly outsource their changing staffing needs with the help of a professional employment agency. That's right, you get paid to help others, a win/win situation!!

EDUCATION: You usually need a bachelor's degree or college diploma in a related field such as psychology, social service or education.

FINANCIAL MANAGER

WHY THIS CAREER IS HOT? The employment growth rate is growing with a hourly wage of ($28.41)! Can you say cheese!! Because of ongoing business trends- the globalization of markets, corporate mergers, acquisitions, and the increasingly complexity of financial transactions, this career will continue to grow above average.

EDUCATION: You usually need a university degree in business administration, commerce, economics or a related field. You may also need a master's degree in business administration (concentration in finance) or management.

PHARMACIST

WHY THIS CAREER IS HOT? Job openings have risen sharply, because our growing and aging population requires more prescription drugs. Hourly wages are 65% above average ($16.91).

EDUCATION: In general, you must have a Bachelor of Science degree in Pharmacy.

ENVIRONMENTAL ENGINEER

WHY THIS CAREER IS HOT? Environmental engineering graduates should have favorable job opportunities as employment of environmental engineers is expected to increase much faster than the average for all occupation throughout the next five years.

EDUCATION: The minimum education requirement is a degree in environmental engineering or a related discipline (e.g. civil or chemical engineering)

Talk about HIV/AIDS on HBCU Campuses

Submitted By Tawain Kelly, Benedict College

How serious is HIV/AIDS on HBCU campus and your community as a whole. People have the myth that HIV/AIDS is not that big of a deal until you get it. Why does it seem that most campuses don't have HIV 101 CLASSES.

Are they afraid that enrollment may go down?

What would you do if you found out your roommate was HIV positive, would you change rooms?

How can colleges protect our future assets (That's you)?

In the black community we are so afraid to address those things that can save our lives but here are some facts about blacks and HIV.

The HIV/AIDS infection rate among Black men is 6 times that of white men and the rate among Black women is 16 times that of white women.

AIDS now accounts for 1 in 3 deaths among Black men aged 25 to 44.

🚫 More children with AIDS are Black than all other race and ethnic groups combined

🚫 Every day in the U.S. about 100 people of color become infected with HIV

🚫 More than two-thirds of all women in the U.S. who are infected with the AIDS virus are Black

🚫 AIDS is the leading cause of death of Blacks, age 25-44

🚫 AIDS is the leading cause of death for Black women

Black women and black men who have sex with men are at the greatest risk to HIV/AIDS. Black women make up almost 70 percent (7,586 out of 11,859) of all new AIDS cases among women.

Women are not the majority of AIDS cases in America. Men are.

Black men are the most impacted by the epidemic in the U.S.

Figure out a way to talk about the AIDS epidemic among African Americans without demonizing black women or black men.

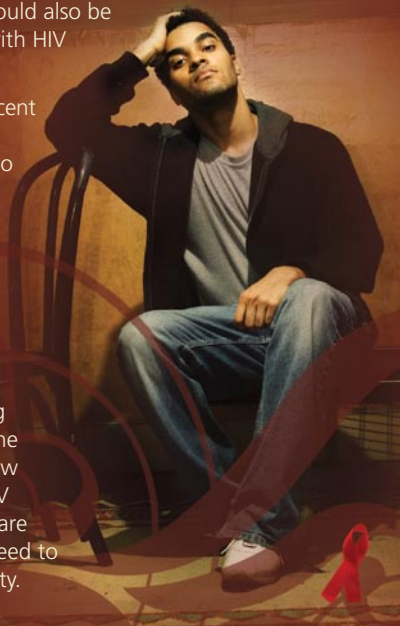

Talk about the facts and not just the fiction around the disease.

We all should be concerned about black women with HIV and AIDS. But we should also be concerned about black men with HIV and AIDS.

We view black women as innocent victims of AIDS but view black men solely as evil predators who are spreading AIDS.

I caught the HIV virus from a female, so who should I be upset with? She died, so should I be upset with with black women? No.

It's time to change that dialogue. But in understanding the issues, we have to know the facts and we have to know how to process the information. HIV 101 on HBCU Campuses. We are the leaders of the future we need to lead this fight in our community.

GET CONNECTED!

By Reginald Culpepper
HBCU CONNECT Staff

Once again, this is Reggie, staff member for HBCU CONNECT. As you know, with every issue, we try to make members aware of some of the useful tools and services that are offered on our site. Last time I showed you all how The Blogs worked and showed you how to share that famous Ramen Noodle recipe that I know - you were dying to share with others. In this installment, I'd like to let all you guys and gals know about one of the neat community tools that we now have - The Chat Room!!!

We have one of the latest chat software programs running on our site for all of our member to utilize. In our chat room, you can chat with other HBCU students (and potential students) about dorm situations, what's going on the yard, what's going on with yourself, or to simply check out the hotties in a live chat environment!

BUT WAIT! Hold on. I know what you are saying, "I've seen chat rooms before. What's the big deal?" Yeah, I hear you.

Well let me give you the 411 on that:

1. Yeah, we aren't Black Planet or Yahoo, but all of our chatters are from the HBCU family. All of our members are educated enough to have decent conversations without all the idiots cramming in. Well, now that I think back to my freshman year, maybe ... maybe not.

2. NO BOTS! Any frequent visitor to Yahoo or Black Planet chat knows what I am talking about. Bots (or fake profiles and automated conversation) are irritating and takes away from the intimacy of the room conversation. (While doing the robot)
- Don't Do Bots!
3. Oh, did I mention ... VIDEO and AUDIO? Yep, if you have a webcam, you can broadcast it to the room so that others can see who they are talking to. Remember though, you are on cam. Do not pick your nose. That's disgusting. At least turn your cam off first. And, only those who are tuned into your webcam/audio will be able to hear you ... no fighting over control for audio time a la Yahoo.

OK, OK... enough already. How do you start? Well simply log in to the site (become a member if you are not already) and click "HBCU Chat" in the menu system. A window will open and connect you into the main room. From here you can start chatting and get the ball rolling.

Maybe you will get a chance to speak with Life Of A Baller, Rocafella2, Latoya Shields, sxylkamf, or even Hamptoncutie15.

So go get your web cam ready, hook up your microphone, stretch your typing fingers, and Get Connected!

REAL CAREERS FOR REAL PEOPLE

By Arrow Electronics Inc.

Arrow Electronics is a major global provider of products, services, and solutions to industrial and commercial users of electronic components and computer products, with 2005 sales of $11.2 billion. Headquartered in Melville, New York, Arrow serves as a supply channel partner for nearly 600 suppliers and more than 130,000 original equipment manufacturers, contract manufacturers, and commercial customers through a global network of more than 270 locations in 53 countries and territories.

A Fortune 500 company with more than 11,000 employees worldwide, Arrow brings the technology solutions of its customers and suppliers to a breadth of markets, including telecommunications, information systems, automotive and transportation, medical and life sciences, industrial equipment, and consumer electronics.

Arrow provides specialized services and expertise at each stage of a product's life cycle, accelerating and simplifying the journey from concept to market. Each product's journey begins with the technology innovations of Arrow's suppliers who introduce thousands of new components and computer products each month. Arrow's customers use that technology to design and manufacture products from home security systems to global telecommunications networks.

This journey from concept to market has become increasingly complex in today's business environment. Arrow customers frequently design and manufacture products across multiple, global locations. Rapid changes in technology add new dimensions to product design and manufacturing. Arrow makes connections across a complex supply chain, manages that complexity, and injects speed at each juncture of the journey to market for technology products with design, fulfillment, materials planning, inventory management, and manufacturing solutions.
